Re:  Sprint Communications Company L.P. v. Vonage Holdings Corp. et al.
     Case No: 05-2433-JWL
     SHB File No: SPRI.116441

Dear Barry:

We are in receipt of your February 15, 2007 letter concerning perceived deficiencies in Sprint’s document production. As an initial matter, we disagree with your contention that Sprint’s production has been untimely and/or incomplete in any way. Sprint has made, and continues to make, significant document productions in this case, the first of which was provided as early as June 2006. The same cannot be said for Vonage’s production.

As for the alleged document deficiencies, you identify over 87 specific topics in your nine (9) page letter and request that Sprint search for and produce all such documents by February 21. Given that this request falls on a holiday weekend, and that you have allotted only three (3) business days for Sprint to conduct this search and produce these documents, your request is, on its face, burdensome and oppressive. Contrary to your contention, these 87 additional topics have not been pending for over one year and, instead, constitute entirely new document requests. Accordingly, Sprint has no option but to provide responses and objections to each of those 87 topics. As these topics are drastically different from any existing request, Sprint is in the process of undertaking a search for these documents and will provide objections and responsive documents on a reasonable timeframe.

Additionally, many of the issues addressed in your February 15 letter are irrelevant to the issues in this litigation. Indeed, Sprint previously informed you that it is not aware of any executed agreement in which any patents were ever placed on Exhibit A of the Sprint/Cisco License Agreements. Sprint also previously informed you that it is not aware of any agreement with Cisco in which Exhibit B to the Sprint/Cisco License Agreement was executed by the parties. As such, many of your requests seem designed solely to burden and harass Sprint. In light of this fact, I would ask that you revise the topics requested in your February 15 letter accordingly.

If you have any questions or concerns, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Sincerely,

Adam P. Seitz
